PAY THE FIDDLER.

—It is at last learned why the arc light at the armory was not lighted for the Bennett silver meeting last week. It seems that a light had been put in for the Republican committee previously, and that it had not been paid for, hence the light company thereafter refused to illuminate for politicians except for cash in advance. The Bryan committee immediately put up silver for their lights and have pursued a cash in advance policy so far as they go.

SMALL FIRE IN EAST SALEM.

The Threatening Flames Quickly Extinguished By the Fire Boys.

At 10:30 o'clock this morning the fire department was summoned to extinguish a small fire in East Salem. A remarkable quick run was made and in an incredibly short time the fire boys had two streams playing on the threatening flames which were soon extinguished.

The fire proved to be in a frame residence on Marion street, near Twelfth, and was occupied by A. S. Armstrong and family. The building belongs to S. B. Catterlin who resides one door east and the damage will not amount to over $100. The fire caught from the kitchen flue and was making good progress when the fire department arrived. Assisted by neighbors the family had removed almost everything of value from the house and these were not in the least damaged.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

FORENOON SESSION.

The Sunday school convention of the South District of the Oregon conference of the Evangelical Association opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. N. Shupp. After the devotional exercises, the organization was effected. Rev. T. T. Vincent was elected president, Miss Addie Libby, vice-president, Miss Carrie Woods, secretary, Rev. W. N. O'Kelly, treasurer. G. A. Manshardt was elected reporter to city papers, who chose for his assistant F. M. Fisher.

The committee on resolutions was appointed by the president, consisting of T. T. Vincent, of Monmouth; G. H. Manshardt, of Albany; M. Burlgame, Corvallis. After the organization was completed the regular program was taken up.

The first on the program was read by Mr. C. F. Doty, subject being "The Best Method of Securing Sunday School Attendance." Some of the important features of the essay was a plea for promptness at the school, a deep interest of each officer in schools and the work at large. The paper was discussed by a number of the delegates, the roll of the schools was called and each school reported the method which they pursued, which indicated activity on the part of the schools.

THE SECOND ESSAY

was read by Rev. G. A. Manshardt "The Graded Sunday School," a system of grading was held forth, for systematic Sunday school work.

THE THIRD ESSAY

was read by Mrs. E. Maurer, "Necessity of Sunday School Teachers Meeting," the necessity of weekly teachers meetings was urged to accomplish uniformity in the teaching of the lessons. The subject was discussed at length.

THE FOURTH ESSAY

was read by T. H. Hallock, "What are the Discouragements of the Sunday School Teacher," a very excellent essay was presented. It was resolved that the essay be published in our church papers.

THE FIFTH ESSAY

was read by Rev. T. T. Vincent on "The Home Department," a very excellent essay setting forth what the home department is and the work it embraces.

The morning session was closed by singing and prayer, Rev. P. Bittner.

Services will begin at 7:30 tonight. Devotional and preaching service—Rev. G. A. Manshardt, of Albany.

Bertram.—A heaven on earth I have won by wooing thee.

Diana.—For which live long to thank both heaven and me!

All's well that ends well.

Act 4, Scene 2.

Bertrano used praise which would be very fitting in the present day had he been wooing "Oxygen" in place of Diana. Had it been the former he would certainly have "Lived long to thank both heaven and me," not Diana. "Oxyvita" invigorates any system and dispels all disease. See ad. in other column.
